BRITISH SOCIETY FOR THE HISTORY OF MEDICINE BIENNIAL CONGRESS

WEDNESDAY 15TH – SATURDAY 18TH SEPTEMBER 2021
UNIVERSITY OF SHEFFIELD

INTRODUCTION

We look forward to welcoming you to the 2021 BSHM Congress in Sheffield. The rich industrial heritage of the city will provide an ideal backdrop to explore the key theme: 'history of medicine in the workplace'.

Other themes of the congress are topical and relevant in the history of medicine. Papers from members and guests on general topics in the history of medicine will be welcome.

The chosen venue; The Diamond Building forms part of The University of Sheffield and has excellent modern facilities in close proximity to the city centre. There are many types of hotels nearby offering accommodation to suit all budgets.

Sheffield is centrally located and has excellent road and rail links. There are many places of interest to visit in the city and nearby. These include the 'great houses' such as Chatsworth and Wentworth Woodhouse. Eyam; the so-called Plague Village, is within easy reach, as are the Yorkshire Sculpture Park and the National Coal Mining Museum. Excellent opportunities for outdoor pursuits are available in the Peak District National Park, some of which lies within the city boundary.

SOCIAL PROGRAMME

Welcome Reception – Wednesday 15th September

The Society will host a welcome reception at the University of Sheffield in The Mappin Building. Please join us for priority registration and meet with friends and colleagues. A history of medicine quiz will be included and a light bite menu will be available.

Congress Social Evening – Thursday 16th September

This informal social evening will take place at Kelham Island Museum. Located in one of the oldest industrial districts, the museum houses objects and archive material representing Sheffield's industrial story. The evening will include a museum tour, buffet and welcome drink.

Congress Dinner – Friday 17th September

The dinner has been arranged in the Town Hall, an impressive and unique Grade 1 listed Victorian building in the heart of the city centre. Join us on this grand social occasion which includes drinks and 3 course dinner.
